Bayada Nurses Opens Private Duty and Medicare-Certified Office in Worcester

Worcester, MA – May 24, 2011 – Bayada Nurses, a national leader in home health care, has opened a new private duty and Medicare-certified office in Worcester, MA. The office, managed by director Lisa Gaudio, will provide skilled nursing, therapy, and personal care and support services to clients in Worcester and Middlesex counties. The office is located at One West Boylston Street.

“We’re excited to expand Bayada’s high quality home health care services in the Worcester area,” said Gaudio. “Our team of nurses, therapists, aides, and social workers will provide a full array of home health care services, delivered with compassion, excellence, and reliability.”

In Massachusetts, Bayada Nurses also cares for clients from service offices in Falmouth, Hyannis, Plymouth, and Quincy. The new Worcester office accepts private pay, Medicare, and most insurances, and referrals are accepted 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Bayada Nurses is accredited by the Community Health Accreditation Program, a leader in home care accreditation.
